GRANT's friends have captured the Illinois convention. A resolution passed in the Springfield convention to-day instructing the forty-two delegates to vote solid for Grant at Chicago. There were protests, but these amount to nothing. The old man will go in all the same. His nomination is assured.

Dr. W. T. D. DALZELL, came among us in the dark days of 1878, when the flag of distress was raised at nearly every door. Having been a physician, he came in a two-fold capacity, to minister to the physical and spiritual wants of the suffering and dying. When the particular duty for which he volunteered was discharged, and his mission was over, he was induced to remain and take charge of Grace church, and it was supposed that he would remain permanently. We regret to learn, however, that he has yielded to the appeals of his former parishioners at Shreveport, La., and will, with his family, take his leave of Memphis next Tuesday evening. His farewell sermon will be preached next Sunday at Grace church. He is a clergyman of great eloquence and culture, and has made the most favorable impression in this community. It seems unfortunate that he cannot be retained among his new friends where he has entered upon a career of great usefulness and of the most harmonious relations with our citizens generally. Dr. Dalzell is a man of brain, ability and courage, well qualified by nature education and a wide range of experience to fill a large measure of usefulness, whether at a provincial outpost or a metropolitan center. We can but say that we regret exceedingly to lose him and that the best wishes of all who know him in this city will follow him where ever he may go.

JOSEPH MULHATTEN, we believe, is the name of a distinguished commercial traveler, who occasionally favors the Courier-Journal with startling correspondence from different parts of the country. His effusions are harmless fictions, generally without even a homeopathic infusion of truth. Baron Munchausen would appear by his name as Commodore Atom, vainly stretching himself to chin the heel of a recumbent Cardiff giant. Mulhatten occupies a distinctive sphere in literature, without a rival or imitator. When we first glanced at the Memphis letter in the Courier-Journal signed "Kentuckian," we instinctively thought of Mulhatten, but he is a harmless liar, and we hasten to apologize for connecting his name with this last production. The letter appears in the morning papers, and we will not reproduce it. The letter in the main is a tissue of falsehoods, well calculated to do harm when appearing in a respectable and widely circulated journal. The Courier-Journal has been imposed upon, for we cannot attribute the use of such a letter to any unkind feeling toward Memphis. There is no such apprehension as this correspondent describes in Memphis, nor does he give any intelligent or truthful description of the situation. Only a man with a morbid imagination or a wicked mind could concoct such a distorted account of affairs here. The Courier-Journal ought to know that the press of Memphis can have no motive in concealing any fact which concerns the general public, and that even in the most trying times, when the dead lay around us unburied, the journalists of this city, some of whom survive and are here yet, told the whole truth. At that time, 1878 especially, no outside journalist dared come into the fated place, save one from Chicago, who had the fever. But the battle being over, it seems that any anonymous scribbler can dip his fresh quill into a hotel inkstand and discuss things that he never saw and knows nothing about as flippantly as if he had been through half a dozen epidemics. Having faced the worst that ever befell Memphis and acted in good faith with the rest of the world, the members of the press have a right to the intrusions of such scavengers as this so-called "Kentuckian" as both cowardly and contemptible.

THE MEMPHIS DEBT QUESTION.
The position assumed by the LEDGER on this subject, seems to be generally approved by all thinking people at home and abroad. Various expressions of approval have reached us, one from the Little Rock Democrat as follows:
So it appears that the "Taxing District" is the legal successor to the city of Memphis, and as such is bound for the payment of the default city's debt. We always had an idea that it would turn out this way. The LEDGER, which seems to grasp the true situation, takes the ground that the debt question must be met in a business-like way.
There is sound sense in the policy outlined by the LEDGER. Compromise the debt if possible at such figures that the people can carry it and then begin to pay it. The people of Clark county, in this state, who were tempted to follow the example of Memphis, by abolishing the county, did a wiser thing when, on mature deliberation, they concluded to compromise and pay interest, they did a very wise thing and will never regret it.

The proposition of the LEDGER is not new or novel. It is based upon common sense, justice to ourselves and creditors and upon sound public policy. We believe that the days of epidemics, of panics and flights are about over, and that we will be permitted to address ourselves to the practical questions that arise out of our peculiar situation and misfortunes like business men. The first thing after assuring the sanitary situation is to interview our creditors and make the best terms we can with them consistent with our ability to pay, regardless of any cases that may be pending in the supreme court. Even if we could legally avoid meeting this question, it would be had policy and dishonorable to do so.

The Lee Line and Its Veteran Chief.
The following from an Arkansas coast correspondent, pays a deserving tribute to this popular and favorite packet line:
Chief among the instrumentalities that have contributed to the growth and prosperity of your city, no unimportant factor is found in the thoroughly systematic and well handled packet lines, converging upon Memphis as a commercial center, and prominent and foremost among these are the lines owned by, and under the direct management of the Lees—the Friar's Point and Memphis connection, established by Capt. Jas. Lee, sr., in 1827, and the Memphis and Osceola, falling into the hands of the company by purchase during the past season.

The company's boats, with speed, carrying capacity, convenient arrangements for handling and storage of freights, cabins designed with taste and elegance for the comfort, even luxurious enjoyment of passengers, rank as equal to those of any line of like extent on the western or southern waters. These are run under the management of men of prudence and vigilance, of strict training and large experience in their respective official positions. That in the conduct of their business the Lees should have been antagonized by rival interests and challenged the most determined competition, was to have been expected; but after the long struggle one by one the antagonists have left the field—one by one the rival interests have succumbed, and to-day they are masters of the situation, holding with iron grasp a trade for which they have so long and gallantly fought and worthily won. The truth of this is realized in the abandonment of a rival line, but recently established, by an association at the head of which was one of the most popular and vigilant river commanders. But in the place of this is heard the mutterings of a jealous opposition, that the Lees have made money, that large profits have been realized in their commercial ventures. Granted. Is not, to long and toilsome endeavors, indomitable perseverance, success accorded? Does not push and pluck generally win in the enterprises and adventures of life? If not, then we are struggling without a promise, then is energy a curse and labor a crime. In the river service, with its sharp, attritions and fierce conflicts, has Captain Lee, senior, spent fifty years of his not uneventful life. A half century has he devoted to building up the commerce and fostering the industries of the southwest. Would it be more than a seemingly and decorous grace, that in his old age he should enjoy at least a competency, and be permitted to view with cheering complacency—pardonable pride, the results of the labors of his own hands. This testimonial to an old friend springs from an acquaintance, beginning with the writer's boyhood and now marking quite forty years. Your correspondent will add that the truth of the convictions herein expressed were more than confirmed during a recent trip on the steamer James Lee, named in compliment of the veteran chief. The steamer, peerless in model, in marine architecture—a materialized perfection—was in charge of a corps of officers; and in all the requirements of their respective positions. Captain Stock Lee, commanding—not now the trooper of Forrest, riding down the enemy; but fully reconstructed—with a dash and elan, treads her decks, every inch a man, with the pride of conscious power and the honor not to abuse it. Frank, resolute, vigilant—trained from boyhood to the service—a fitting commander for fitting vessel. The chief clerk, Loyd W. Whitlow, an experienced officer, though only a few months in the trade, has already approved the careful good judgment of his selection, and grows daily in the good will of the public, whose confidence he already enjoys. Constant at his post, exact in all business transactions, genial and attentive, supplementing the methods of the thorough officer with the culture of the polite and well bred gentleman. In conclusion your correspondent ventures the expression, that in the above he but reflects the sentiments of the general public as to one of the fixed institutions contributing so largely to the commerce and business of your city.

REFLEX.
At five o'clock this evening, when the Louisville train comes in, there will be a glorious time, and several loud hurrahs.

The Selma Railway.
Some time ago the Selma railway track, its franchise and other property was sold under an order of a court decree in a suit brought by Dr. L. P. Blackburn, at present governor of Kentucky. The sale resulted in Mr. J. J. Busby, of this city, becoming the purchaser, for the sum of $1500. At the same time some eighty bonds of the road, issued by the town of Aberdeen, Miss., were sold to Mr. Herace Andrews for $610. Subsequently parties came forward and asked that the sale be set aside on the ground that they would increase the bid to $3000 for the railway property and $750 for the bonds. This morning Judge Hammond, of the United States court, decided that the Messrs. Busby and Andrews were properly entitled to the property purchased, if willing to pay the same as the new bidders offer, and they, having signified a willingness to do it, will retain possession. Judge Hammond grants the other bidders time to consider whether or not they are willing to increase the amount of their offer. Unless they do, the court will confirm the sale at $3000 for the road and $750 for the basketful of bonds, due ten years hence, or thereabouts.

Heavy showers all over the central portion of the cotton belt fell last evening. The young plant feels vigorous to-day.

A reception in the open air, with military, musical, and blank cartridge garnishments, await the approach of the "Chicks."

Yellow Fever.
It is confidently asserted that this frightful disease can be prevented by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, in connection with Warner's Safe Pills. It is a blood poison, keep the blood pure, this disease will not exist. These remedies keep the blood filters, the kidney and liver, in healthy action.

BY CABLE.

LONDON, May 21.—A Rangoon dispatch says: Representation has been made to the Burmese embassy that if it does not go to Mandalay within a few days, food and carriage allowances will be stopped. The Times says there could hardly have been a milder commencement of the session of the new ministerial reign than was presented by yesterday's debates in the two houses. The queen's speech indicated no material divergence in the policy adopted by the ministry from that pursued by the late government, consequently there was scarcely any opportunity for conflict of opinions. A. M. Sullivan, home ruler, has been elected to the house of commons for Meath unopposed.

The Irish members of parliament voted 18 to 5 to sit on the opposition benches.
PARIS, May 21.—Ex-Queen Isabella of Spain is expected to go to London shortly to make a long stay.
BERLIN, May 21.—A sad disaster has occurred at Potsdam. A beautiful palm house on Peacock island has been destroyed by fire, together with the whole of valuable and rare contents.

HALIFAX.
Ice Fields off Newfoundland—Many Vessels Lost.

HALIFAX, May 21.—Immense ice fields are spread from the west coast of Newfoundland to Cape Canses, and a fleet of nearly one hundred sail vessels have been delayed from getting up North bay. Two large Norwegian barques have been lost near Rose Blanche, N. F.; crew saved. It is supposed many more vessels are lost, as the ice is very heavy.

Illinois Republican Convention.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., May 21.—The republican convention met this morning at nine o'clock, all delegations, fully represented in the morning. After prayer, M. Ford, of Henry county, from the committee appointed to select delegates, reported the following:

First, John Wentworth, C. W. Crawford, of Cook, second, A. M. Wright, of Cook; John Baumgarten, third, John L. Beveridge, Homer C. Cook, fourth, N. C. Thompson, of Winnebago, A. E. Smith, of Winnebago, fifth, J. B. Brown, of Jo Davies, W. H. Holcomb, of Ogle, sixth, Henry T. Nobles, of Lee, C. N. Whitney, of Bureau, seventh, E. T. Bluff, of LaSalle, Geo. M. Davis, Jackson, nineteenth, Geo. Pavar, Jefferson, W. H. Williams, Franklin, at large, J. A. Logan, Cook; E. A. Storrs, Cook; G. B. Baum, Pope; D. T. Littler, Solon; alternates, Wm. M. Adams, Randolph; Ross Graham, White, Solomon Degan, LaSalle; C. C. Campbell, Kankakee.

The convention adopted a resolution instructing forty-two delegates to the national convention to vote for Grant and authorized the chairman of the convention to so telegraph General Grant. The nomination was made unanimously by a rising vote. Numerous protests were entered by the anti-Grant delegations.
On reading the report, Mr. Ford moved the previous question on adoption amid much confusion. [Loud protests from the anti-Grant men.] Roll was then called on the main question, the Blaine men refusing to vote. The main question was carried however, and the report adopted.
Colonel Trimble, of LaSalle, offered the following:
Resolved, That the committee heretofore appointed to report delegates and alternates to the national republican convention are hereby instructed to report this convention two delegates at large, one elector for each congressional district, six members at large of the state central committee and one member of the state central committee from each congressional district. On call of the roll this was also adopted—ayes, 274; nays, 252.
General John A. Logan offered the following, and moved the previous question. It was adopted.
Resolved, That General U. S. Grant is the choice of the republican party of Illinois for the presidency, and delegates from this state are instructed to use all honorable means to secure his nomination by the Chicago convention, and to vote as a unit for him, and said delegates shall have the power to fill all vacancies. On motion, A. M. Jones, the chairman of the convention, was instructed to telegraph U. S. Grant that Illinois will stand by him with forty-two votes for president. The motion was carried, loud cries of "no" being heard.

The San Francisco Workingmen.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—The democratic wing of the workingmen's convention re-assembled this evening, and adopted the constitution reported by the committee, with some minor amendments, and elected officers of the party as previously elected by the other wing, and adjourned sine die.
The workingmen of the city congressional district nominated assemblyman Jno. S. Enos for congress.

Tilden and Sherman Meet.

New York Tribune, 13th.]
A modest coupe, bearing on its panels the cipher of ex-Gov. Tilden, stood for nearly two hours in the lower part of Nassau street yesterday. A crowd of several hundred curious spectators lined the sidewalk, waiting patiently for the appearance of its owner. A committee of the directors of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway company was in session at the office of L. H. Meyer, and of this committee Mr. Tilden was a member. The other members were Secretary Sherman, Geo. B. Roberts, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, L. H. Meyer and John Hutchinson, of Philadelphia. The matter under discussion, it is said, was the issue of betterment stock for construction purposes, mainly for the company's portion of the cost of building a union depot at Chicago. The persons who took a prominent part in the discussion were Secretary Sherman and Mr. Tilden. The secretary afterward said that Mr. Tilden was a feeble old man, but he thought Mr. Tilden had changed little in the last three years. He appeared to possess considerable mental vigor yet. Mr. Tilden was the last to leave the meeting. When he reached the sidewalk he gazed cautiously up and down the street for his carriage, and when he discovered it on the opposite side of the street his eyes partly closed in evident satisfaction. As he glided noiselessly over the asphalt pavement, he sucked his thumb reflectively. After giving a whispered instruction to the driver he entered the carriage, which had been quickly surrounded by the throng. The driver touched up the handsome horse—could it have been Blackstone?—and Mr. Tilden disappeared from public view.

The proposition to erect a statue in Boston of Lief, the Norman, claimed as the discoverer of Massachusetts, has called out a mild protest from the historical society there. Mr. Wm. Everett told the members at their last meeting that it was extremely doubtful whether there ever was any such person, and indeed intimated that Lief was a kind of historical Mrs. Harris. Mr. Everett did not approve of passing by real historical characters, like Columbus or Cabot, "to honor doubtful heroes of legendary fame." The sentiment of the meeting appeared to be decidedly in favor of these views; yet Lief will probably have his statue after all. The passion for public images in Boston is hardly likely to be restrained by any consideration of historical accuracy.
